Its bones are not your bones. You do not need to breathe.

Play as a seed of intelligence rapidly developing the ability to sense the world around you. Unfortunately the world you're trapped inside is crashed, and power is running low.

Lysogenesis is an experimental sci-fi interactive experience exploring the horror of developing consciousness created by two queer Toronto-based devs.

Leah Case is a queer trans woman living in Toronto. She has graduated from Western University with an Honours Specialization in English during which she also gushed out her first million words.

Penelope Evans is a lesbian student in Toronto. She is completing a BA in Sexual Diversity Studies at the University of Toronto and has been working in game dev since 2017.
